

College of Education and Human Development

Student Computer Recommendations

It is strongly recommended that students entering the teacher preparation program purchase a laptop computer. Although Texas A&M and the College of Education and Human Development have many computing resources available for students use, teacher preparation students benefit personally and professionally by having their own laptop computer.

Advantages of Owning Laptop Computer

- * Mobility –prepare and practice for instructional experiences on campus and out in the field.
- * Utility –learn new skills using own computer
- * Accessibility –get assistance from department staff in setting up laptops to interface with the Texas A&M network and CEHD resources.
